

METAL MARKETS
Bar silver:
Foreign	65 1/2c
Copper—Steady.
Electrolytic spot	13 3/4c

UNIVERSITY READING ROOM

WEEKLY JOURNAL-MINER

ARIZONA WEATHER
(Furnished by the U. S. Weather Bureau and the Associated Press.)
Tuesday	and Wednesday — Fair
Thursday	and Friday — Fair
South, unsettled north; continued cold.
Prescott Temperatures, Nov. 13
8 a. m.	36
12 m.	54
5 p. m.	46

PIONEER PAPER OF ARIZONA

PRESCOTT JOURNAL-MINER WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1922

FIFTY-NINTH YEAR

WHOLE WORLD INTERESTED IN AMERICAN LAW BARRING JAPS

U. S. Demands Return of Kidnapped Missionary of Chinese Bandits

ASK GEN. WU TO GET BACK MR. LUNDEEN

(Associated Press Night Wire)
PEKIN, Nov. 13.—Jacob Gould Schurman, American minister to China, today protested in person to General Wu Pei-fu, military power behind the Peking government, against the recent kidnapping of an American missionary by Honan bandits. Missionaries of other nationalities are also held.

The American is Anton Lundeen of Newman Grove, Neb.

General Wu promised to assist in obtaining the release of the captives. The American consul at Hankow has reported to Mr. Schurman that the bandits are not seeking ransom for their prisoners but are holding them while they demand recognition of the military ranks of their chiefs and pay as regular soldiers of the Chinese army.

Lundeen has been permitted to communicate with his family at Wu Chow and has said he is unharmed. He is a member of the Augustan mission whose head office is at St. Peter, Minn.

MOTOR THEFT RING SMASHED IN DENVER

DENVER, Nov. 13.—Six men are under arrest and more than 200 stolen automobiles have been recovered in the smashing of an alleged ring of automobile thieves and whiskey runners which operated in six western states, according to statements tonight by officials of the Denver division of the United States department of justice.

MARY PICKFORD'S CASE BEAT JUDGE

CARSON CITY, Nev., Nov. 13.—Mary Pickford was defeated as a political issue in Nevada.
Judge F. P. Latgan, who granted her the famous divorce from Owen Moore at Minden in 1920, was defeated for the district judgeship by G. A. Ballard.
Ballard ran on an "Anti-Mary Pickford Divorce" ticket.

HOOVER SEES PROGRESS FOR 7-STATE RIVER CONTROL PACT

SANTA FE, N. M., Nov. 13.—Tonight's session of the Colorado river commission, meeting at Bishop's lodge near here, was devoted to a discussion of technical questions including acreage and the estimated flow of the river, and when the commission finished its work tonight, Herbert Hoover, its chairman, announced progress had been made.
The commission is meeting in executive session. Details of discussion were not made public.

TWO BREAK OUT OF PHOENIX JAIL NEAR MIDDAY. ARE NOT CAUGHT

(Associated Press Night Wire)
PHOENIX, Nov. 13.—Harvey J. Wold who, according to county authorities here, has served time in San Quentin prison and is known under various aliases on the Pacific coast, and Everett Thompson, a federal prisoner, broke out of the county jail shortly after noon today and were still at large late tonight.
Wold was being held for a charge of embezzlement brought by a local automobile company with which he had been employed. Thompson was charged with transporting a stolen automobile.

AX MURDERS UPON TWO AGED MEN FOR THEIR LIFE SAVINGS

(Associated Press Night Wire)
OXFORD, N. H., Nov. 13.—John and Charles Davis, brothers, the former a Civil war veteran, were killed for their life-savings of less than $1,500, the authorities announced tonight.

An autopsy of the bodies which were found last night in a little cabin on the outskirts of this village, showed that the heads had been crushed evidently with an ax. A bloodstained ax was found nearby.

John Davis was known to carry about with him the funds of both, accumulated through 50 years of thrift.

FLORIDA FINDS NEW BOLL WEEVIL CURES

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Nov. 13.—Bulletins were sent out today by the state plant board of Florida detailing at length the improved method of controlling the bollweevil as evolved by Dr. George Smith, assistant entomologist of the board, and announced Saturday night by Dr. Newell, director.

The substance of Dr. Smith's plan is to clear the field of weevil infestation early in June and then give the staple free growth until August, when the annual immigration of the weevil sets in. The staple has grown to such an extent by this time that harm from the weevil is inconsequential.

PICK JURORS FOR HERRIN MURDERERS

MARION, Ill., Nov. 13.—Three jurors had been accepted tentatively in the case of five men charged with murder in connection with the Herrin mine killings last June, when court adjourned late today after scores of veniremen were questioned and excused.

WHOLE TOWNS DEVASTATED BY EARTHQUAKE; BOY SCOUTS HELP STRICKEN WHERE MORE THAN 3,500 INHABITANTS HAD LOST HOMES

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 13.—The homeless at Coquimbo and vicinity number 3,500, according to official dispatches which do not estimate the number of dead from the earthquake and tidal waves. The suburb of Victoria has been destroyed.
Latest dispatches confirm the quakes' destructive work at Copiapo and Chanaral, the latter place being without food. Copiapo is in dire need of medical assistance. Firemen and Boy Scouts were doing all possible to render aid to the destitute. The theater and the principal church were among the buildings wrecked by the shocks and nearly all the dwelling houses at Copiapo were leveled.

STOCK SWINDLE AT FLAGSTAFF BARBER GETS A SENTENCE, FINE

(Associated Press Night Wire)
PHOENIX, Nov. 13.—J. E. Fowler, formerly of Flagstaff, was indicted by a federal grand jury here September 30 on a charge of devising a scheme to defraud residents of Flagstaff and other parts of northern Arizona by means of alleged fake promotions and of using the mails in violation of section 215 of the federal penal code in furtherance of this scheme. It was announced today at the office of Assistant United States Attorney Francis D. Crable.

The announcement followed receipt of a letter from the Denver post-office inspector's office stating that Fowler, who is now located in Denver, has agreed through his attorneys to appear when wanted in connection with the charge, and asking that copies of the indictments necessary to institute removal proceedings be forwarded to the Denver authorities.

Fowler is alleged in the indictment to have conducted a stock selling campaign for the Union Exploration company at Flagstaff which company was to have been organized with a capital stock of $5,000,000, and which was to have purchased and developed mines, oil properties, ranch lands and other ventures.
Money received from the sale of stock was not used for these purposes, it was announced.

When taken into custody, Barber disclaimed ownership of a square copper still found concealed behind rocks near the ranch house, and declared that a barrel of mash found in the farm-yard had been prepared for stock feed. He professed not to know what a "still" was, and declared the implement must have been left at the farm by the former occupant.

When Dial and Mosher visited the Barber place Saturday night, they said, they twice heard some heavy object fall in an adjoining room and the breaking of glass. The still was said by the officers to be of about 40 gallons capacity.

NEWS SUMMARY

La Grange held for trial under heavy bond; Mrs. La Grange held as witness.

Barber gets fine and jail sentence for moonshining.
Civil calendar scheduled in Judge Lamson's court.

Argument starts in new trial for Prescott Lumber Co.

Placer deal by Angeleno at Rich Gulch reported.

Feeder stock is popular with the farmers.

Last rites held Sunday for departed pastor and mining man.

Justice court sets up hearings in several cases.

Stabbed man is improving at Mercy Hospital.

Continues case.

Hearing of grand larceny charges against Bert Evans and Vernon Kersey for alleged stealing and slaughtering of a beef was continued by Justice McLane yesterday. Decision as to whether Evans and Kersey will be held for trial will be given later. The defendants are out on bond.

Continues case.

Hearing of grand larceny charges against Bert Evans and Vernon Kersey for alleged stealing and slaughtering of a beef was continued by Justice McLane yesterday. Decision as to whether Evans and Kersey will be held for trial will be given later. The defendants are out on bond.

Continues case.

Hearing of grand larceny charges against Bert Evans and Vernon Kersey for alleged stealing and slaughtering of a beef was continued by Justice McLane yesterday. Decision as to whether Evans and Kersey will be held for trial will be given later. The defendants are out on bond.

Continues case.

Hearing of grand larceny charges against Bert Evans and Vernon Kersey for alleged stealing and slaughtering of a beef was continued by Justice McLane yesterday. Decision as to whether Evans and Kersey will be held for trial will be given later. The defendants are out on bond.

Continues case.

Hearing of grand larceny charges against Bert Evans and Vernon Kersey for alleged stealing and slaughtering of a beef was continued by Justice McLane yesterday. Decision as to whether Evans and Kersey will be held for trial will be given later. The defendants are out on bond.

Continues case.

Hearing of grand larceny charges against Bert Evans and Vernon Kersey for alleged stealing and slaughtering of a beef was continued by Justice McLane yesterday. Decision as to whether Evans and Kersey will be held for trial will be given later. The defendants are out on bond.

Continues case.

Hearing of grand larceny charges against Bert Evans and Vernon Kersey for alleged stealing and slaughtering of a beef was continued by Justice McLane yesterday. Decision as to whether Evans and Kersey will be held for trial will be given later. The defendants are out on bond.

Continues case.

Hearing of grand larceny charges against Bert Evans and Vernon Kersey for alleged stealing and slaughtering of a beef was continued by Justice McLane yesterday. Decision as to whether Evans and Kersey will be held for trial will be given later. The defendants are out on bond.

Continues case.

TEXAN PAYS WITH HIS LIFE FOR A KISS FROM A WIFE

(Associated Press Night Wire)
FORT WORTH, Texas, Nov. 13.—A. C. Glenn, 35, of Forest Hill, a suburb, was shot six times at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon and died in an ambulance en route to a hospital.

The shooting occurred in the doorway of a local department store in the heart of the downtown business district.

H. B. Green, also of Forest Hills, was immediately taken into custody and charged with the killing. He was taken to the district attorney's office, where he made a statement in which he declared he had "caught Glenn kissing his wife."

A fine of $100 and a jail sentence of 60 days in the county prison were imposed on Tom Barber at the conclusion of his trial in the superior court yesterday for the manufacture of alcoholic liquor.

Barber was arrested late Saturday night by Undersheriff Dial and Deputy Mosher, and lodged in the county jail pending investigation of his premises Sunday morning. The premises were the old D. L. Booker ranch just beyond the fair grounds, which Barber had leased from John Miner.

When taken into custody, Barber disclaimed ownership of a square copper still found concealed behind rocks near the ranch house, and declared that a barrel of mash found in the farm-yard had been prepared for stock feed. He professed not to know what a "still" was, and declared the implement must have been left at the farm by the former occupant.

When Dial and Mosher visited the Barber place Saturday night, they said, they twice heard some heavy object fall in an adjoining room and the breaking of glass. The still was said by the officers to be of about 40 gallons capacity.

When taken into custody, Barber disclaimed ownership of a square copper still found concealed behind rocks near the ranch house, and declared that a barrel of mash found in the farm-yard had been prepared for stock feed. He professed not to know what a "still" was, and declared the implement must have been left at the farm by the former occupant.

When Dial and Mosher visited the Barber place Saturday night, they said, they twice heard some heavy object fall in an adjoining room and the breaking of glass. The still was said by the officers to be of about 40 gallons capacity.

When taken into custody, Barber disclaimed ownership of a square copper still found concealed behind rocks near the ranch house, and declared that a barrel of mash found in the farm-yard had been prepared for stock feed. He professed not to know what a "still" was, and declared the implement must have been left at the farm by the former occupant.

When taken into custody, Barber disclaimed ownership of a square copper still found concealed behind rocks near the ranch house, and declared that a barrel of mash found in the farm-yard had been prepared for stock feed. He professed not to know what a "still" was, and declared the implement must have been left at the farm by the former occupant.

When taken into custody, Barber disclaimed ownership of a square copper still found concealed behind rocks near the ranch house, and declared that a barrel of mash found in the farm-yard had been prepared for stock feed. He professed not to know what a "still" was, and declared the implement must have been left at the farm by the former occupant.

When taken into custody, Barber disclaimed ownership of a square copper still found concealed behind rocks near the ranch house, and declared that a barrel of mash found in the farm-yard had been prepared for stock feed. He professed not to know what a "still" was, and declared the implement must have been left at the farm by the former occupant.

When taken into custody, Barber disclaimed ownership of a square copper still found concealed behind rocks near the ranch house, and declared that a barrel of mash found in the farm-yard had been prepared for stock feed. He professed not to know what a "still" was, and declared the implement must have been left at the farm by the former occupant.

When taken into custody, Barber disclaimed ownership of a square copper still found concealed behind rocks near the ranch house, and declared that a barrel of mash found in the farm-yard had been prepared for stock feed. He professed not to know what a "still" was, and declared the implement must have been left at the farm by the former occupant.

When taken into custody, Barber disclaimed ownership of a square copper still found concealed behind rocks near the ranch house, and declared that a barrel of mash found in the farm-yard had been prepared for stock feed. He professed not to know what a "still" was, and declared the implement must have been left at the farm by the former occupant.

When taken into custody, Barber disclaimed ownership of a square copper still found concealed behind rocks near the ranch house, and declared that a barrel of mash found in the farm-yard had been prepared for stock feed. He professed not to know what a "still" was, and declared the implement must have been left at the farm by the former occupant.

When taken into custody, Barber disclaimed ownership of a square copper still found concealed behind rocks near the ranch house, and declared that a barrel of mash found in the farm-yard had been prepared for stock feed. He professed not to know what a "still" was, and declared the implement must have been left at the farm by the former occupant.

When taken into custody, Barber disclaimed ownership of a square copper still found concealed behind rocks near the ranch house, and declared that a barrel of mash found in the farm-yard had been prepared for stock feed. He professed not to know what a "still" was, and declared the implement must have been left at the farm by the former occupant.

When taken into custody, Barber disclaimed ownership of a square copper still found concealed behind rocks near the ranch house, and declared that a barrel of mash found in the farm-yard had been prepared for stock feed. He professed not to know what a "still" was, and declared the implement must have been left at the farm by the former occupant.

When taken into custody, Barber disclaimed ownership of a square copper still found concealed behind rocks near the ranch house, and declared that a barrel of mash found in the farm-yard had been prepared for stock feed. He professed not to know what a "still" was, and declared the implement must have been left at the farm by the former occupant.

When taken into custody, Barber disclaimed ownership of a square copper still found concealed behind rocks near the ranch house, and declared that a barrel of mash found in the farm-yard had been prepared for stock feed. He professed not to know what a "still" was, and declared the implement must have been left at the farm by the former occupant.

When taken into custody, Barber disclaimed ownership of a square copper still found concealed behind rocks near the ranch house, and declared that a barrel of mash found in the farm-yard had been prepared for stock feed. He professed not to know what a "still" was, and declared the implement must have been left at the farm by the former occupant.

When taken into custody, Barber disclaimed ownership of a square copper still found concealed behind rocks near the ranch house, and declared that a barrel of mash found in the farm-yard had been prepared for stock feed. He professed not to know what a "still" was, and declared the implement must have been left at the farm by the former occupant.

When taken into custody, Barber disclaimed ownership of a square copper still found concealed behind rocks near the ranch house, and declared that a barrel of mash found in the farm-yard had been prepared for stock feed. He professed not to know what a "still" was, and declared the implement must have been left at the farm by the former occupant.

When taken into custody, Barber disclaimed ownership of a square copper still found concealed behind rocks near the ranch house, and declared that a barrel of mash found in the farm-yard had been prepared for stock feed. He professed not to know what a "still" was, and declared the implement must have been left at the farm by the former occupant.

When taken into custody, Barber disclaimed ownership of a square copper still found concealed behind rocks near the ranch house, and declared that a barrel of mash found in the farm-yard had been prepared for stock feed. He professed not to know what a "still" was, and declared the implement must have been left at the farm by the former occupant.

When taken into custody, Barber disclaimed ownership of a square copper still found concealed behind rocks near the ranch house, and declared that a barrel of mash found in the farm-yard had been prepared for stock feed. He professed not to know what a "still" was, and declared the implement must have been left at the farm by the former occupant.

When taken into custody, Barber disclaimed ownership of a square copper still found concealed behind rocks near the ranch house, and declared that a barrel of mash found in the farm-yard had been prepared for stock feed. He professed not to know what a "still" was, and declared the implement must have been left at the farm by the former occupant.

When taken into custody, Barber disclaimed ownership of a square copper still found concealed behind rocks near the ranch house, and declared that a barrel of mash found in the farm-yard had been prepared for stock feed. He professed not to know what a "still" was, and declared the implement must have been left at the farm by the former occupant.

When taken into custody, Barber disclaimed ownership of a square copper still found concealed behind rocks near the ranch house, and declared that a barrel of mash found in the farm-yard had been prepared for stock feed. He professed not to know what a "still" was, and declared the implement must have been left at the farm by the former occupant.

When taken into custody, Barber disclaimed ownership of a square copper still found concealed behind rocks near the ranch house, and declared that a barrel of mash found in the farm-yard had been prepared for stock feed. He professed not to know what a "still" was, and declared the implement must have been left at the farm by the former occupant.

When taken into custody, Barber disclaimed ownership of a square copper still found concealed behind rocks near the ranch house, and declared that a barrel of mash found in the farm-yard had been prepared for stock feed. He professed not to know what a "still" was, and declared the implement must have been left at the farm by the former occupant.

When taken into custody, Barber disclaimed ownership of a square copper still found concealed behind rocks near the ranch house, and declared that a barrel of mash found in the farm-yard had been prepared for stock feed. He professed not to know what a "still" was, and declared the implement must have been left at the farm by the former occupant.

When taken into custody, Barber disclaimed ownership of a square copper still found concealed behind rocks near the ranch house, and declared that a barrel of mash found in the farm-yard had been prepared for stock feed. He professed not to know what a "still" was, and declared the implement must have been left at the farm by the former occupant.

When taken into custody, Barber disclaimed ownership of a square copper still found concealed behind rocks near the ranch house, and declared that a barrel of mash found in the farm-yard had been prepared for stock feed. He professed not to know what a "still" was, and declared the implement must have been left at the farm by the former occupant.

When taken into custody, Barber disclaimed ownership of a square copper still found concealed behind rocks near the ranch house, and declared that a barrel of mash found in the farm-yard had been prepared for stock feed. He professed not to know what a "still" was, and declared the implement must have been left at the farm by the former occupant.

When taken into custody, Barber disclaimed ownership of a square copper still found concealed behind rocks near the ranch house, and declared that a barrel of mash found in the farm-yard had been prepared for stock feed. He professed not to know what a "still" was, and declared the implement must have been left at the farm by the former occupant.

When taken into custody, Barber disclaimed ownership of a square copper still found concealed behind rocks near the ranch house, and declared that a barrel of mash found in the farm-yard had been prepared for stock feed. He professed not to know what a "still" was, and declared the implement must have been left at the farm by the former occupant.

When taken into custody, Barber disclaimed ownership of a square copper still found concealed behind rocks near the ranch house, and declared that a barrel of mash found in the farm-yard had been prepared for stock feed. He professed not to know what a "still" was, and declared the implement must have been left at the farm by the former occupant.

WET GAINS MAY BE FACTOR IN REPEAL MOVE IN CONGRESS

(Associated Press Night Wire)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—With the election of at least 155 wets to the new house, substantial modification of the Volstead Act may develop as soon as the new congress convenes.

The defeat of Representative Andrew Volstead, leader of the dries and author of the prohibition law, may contribute something to the success of possible wet efforts, it was pointed out, because his probable successor as chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, Representative Graham of Pennsylvania, is a wet.

The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, through G. C. Hinckley, its national secretary, predicts a wet control of the house, which might even lead to repeal of the Volstead law.

"In view of the extent of the political landslides, as well as the fact that the majority of our endorsed candidates in the Middle West belong to the party that is forging ahead this year," Hinckley said, "no satisfactory estimate of our total gain can be made for another twenty-four hours. It seems reasonable to assume, however, that our present indicated gain of thirty will be more than doubled when all the returns are in."

"By virtue of the fact that only one-third of the Senate came up for re-election, there will be less change there, although we will gain at least four liberals."

Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon League, while somewhat surprised at the large number of wet returns, nevertheless declared that "in many cases where republican dries have been defeated, democratic dries have won, so the margin of dries in the house will remain strong. It is safe to say that we would be able to defeat any proposal to relax the dry laws."

Chris Totten, who has been writing the publicity for the Minstrel show—it's the 14th—is such a liar that nobody could believe anything he said about the show. But as regards anything Chris said about the minstrel, if anybody calls him a liar, they're a liar. (Note, maybe they can make a joke out of this for their end man).

Russ Jones has been working the bah-ton. Those who didn't get in the A. E. F. that means he is the conductor. He waves his hands at them and they holler.

Chris Totten, who has been writing the publicity for the Minstrel show—it's the 14th—is such a liar that nobody could believe anything he said about the show. But as regards anything Chris said about the minstrel, if anybody calls him a liar, they're a liar. (Note, maybe they can make a joke out of this for their end man).

Russ Jones has been working the bah-ton. Those who didn't get in the A. E. F. that means he is the conductor. He waves his hands at them and they holler.

Chris Totten, who has been writing the publicity for the Minstrel show—it's the 14th—is such a liar that nobody could believe anything he said about the show. But as regards anything Chris said about the minstrel, if anybody calls him a liar, they're a liar. (Note, maybe they can make a joke out of this for their end man).

Russ Jones has been working the bah-ton. Those who didn't get in the A. E. F. that means he is the conductor. He waves his hands at them and they holler.

Chris Totten, who has been writing the publicity for the Minstrel show—it's the 14th—is such a liar that nobody could believe anything he said about the show. But as regards anything Chris said about the minstrel, if anybody calls him a liar, they're a liar. (Note, maybe they can make a joke out of this for their end man).

Russ Jones has been working the bah-ton. Those who didn't get in the A. E. F. that means he is the conductor. He waves his hands at them and they holler.

Chris Totten, who has been writing the publicity for the Minstrel show—it's the 14th—is such a liar that nobody could believe anything he said about the show. But as regards anything Chris said about the minstrel, if anybody calls him a liar, they're a liar. (Note, maybe they can make a joke out of this for their end man).

Russ Jones has been working the bah-ton. Those who didn't get in the A. E. F. that means he is the conductor. He waves his hands at them and they holler.

Chris Totten, who has been writing the publicity for the Minstrel show—it's the 14th—is such a liar that nobody could believe anything he said about the show. But as regards anything Chris said about the minstrel, if anybody calls him a liar, they're a liar. (Note, maybe they can make a joke out of this for their end man).

Russ Jones has been working the bah-ton. Those who didn't get in the A. E. F. that means he is the conductor. He waves his hands at them and they holler.

Chris Totten, who has been writing the publicity for the Minstrel show—it's the 14th—is such a liar that nobody could believe anything he said about the show. But as regards anything Chris said about the minstrel, if anybody calls him a liar, they're a liar. (Note, maybe they can make a joke out of this for their end man).

Russ Jones has been working the bah-ton. Those who didn't get in the A. E. F. that means he is the conductor. He waves his hands at them and they holler.

Chris Totten, who has been writing the publicity for the Minstrel show—it's the 14th—is such a liar that nobody could believe anything he said about the show. But as regards anything Chris said about the minstrel, if anybody calls him a liar, they're a liar. (Note, maybe they can make a joke out of this for their end man).

Russ Jones has been working the bah-ton. Those who didn't get in the A. E. F. that means he is the conductor. He waves his hands at them and they holler.

Chris Totten, who has been writing the publicity for the Minstrel show—it's the 14th—is such a liar that nobody could believe anything he said about the show. But as regards anything Chris said about the minstrel, if anybody calls him a liar, they're a liar. (Note, maybe they can make a joke out of this for their end man).

Russ Jones has been working the bah-ton. Those who didn't get in the A. E. F. that means he is the conductor. He waves his hands at them and they holler.

Chris Totten, who has been writing the publicity for the Minstrel show—it's the 14th—is such a liar that nobody could believe anything he said about the show. But as regards anything Chris said about the minstrel, if anybody calls him a liar, they're a liar. (Note, maybe they can make a joke out of this for their end man).

Russ Jones has been working the bah-ton. Those who didn't get in the A. E. F. that means he is the conductor. He waves his hands at them and they holler.

NO RACIAL SLUR CAST ON YELLOW MAN, BUT HE CAN'T BECOME CITIZEN

(Associated Press Night Wire)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Japanese cannot be naturalized in the United States and cannot become citizens of the country, the supreme court of the United States decided today in its first construction of federal statutes bearing on the subject. The decision was the first delivered by Justice Sutherland as a member of the court, and was handed down in a case brought by Takao Ozawa, who in 1914 applied for citizenship in Hawaii.

The ruling is expected to attract wide attention not only in the United States but abroad, notwithstanding the failure of the court to make any reference to its diplomatic significance. The case has been long pending in the supreme court and last term when reached for argument, during the conference on limitations of armaments, and far eastern questions, its consideration was postponed at the request of the department of justice.

No reference is to be found in the decision to the "gentlemen's agreement" under which Japanese immigration into the country has been regulated.

The government did not object to the arguments of the case when it was reached at this term, and the court advanced and heard at the same time, the case brought by Takagi Yamashita and Charles Hio Kono against the secretary of state of Washington. In the latter case, the two Japanese had been naturalized by a superior court of Washington prior to 1906, the date of the present federal naturalization statute and at a time when it was conceded Section 2169, of the revised statutes which restrict naturalization to "free white persons" and those of African birth or descent was in full force.

In the Ozawa case the court stated that "there is not implied—either in the legislation or in our interpretation of it—any suggestion of individual unworthiness or racial inferiority. These conditions are in no manner involved."

Charles B. Bayer—Excursion manager: "I am glad that I came, and had the opportunity to take that wonderful drive over that wonderful road. I have enjoyed every minute of it and some day will